Total Participation: 66 students

Objective of the Program

The program aims to skill final-year UG Engineering, students in emerging technologies, particularly Artificial Intelligence, to enhance employability and develop industry-ready graduates. The initiative focuses on providing structured training, practical exposure, and certification through a collaborative industry–academia model.

Program Highlights

- Course on Artificial Intelligence with joint certification from IBM and ICT Academy
- Total 42 hours of training including:
- 16 hours self-learning through SkillsBuild platform
- 24 hours Instructor-Led Training (ILT) with project-based learning using open-source tools
- 2 hours final assessment
- Fully sponsored training offered free of cost to students
- Participation of 66 final-year students (2026 passing out, Computer streams)
- SPOC nomination, lab facilitation, inauguration and valedictory events, and volunteering sessions as institutional responsibilities
- Trainer support, templates, assessment, and certification facilitated by ICT Academy

Outcome of the Event

- Students gained foundational and applied knowledge in Artificial Intelligence.
- Participants experienced blended learning through self-paced and instructor-led sessions.
- The program strengthened industry–academia collaboration and enhanced student employability prospects.
- Certification from IBM and ICT Academy added professional value to students' academic profiles.

Conclusion

The Artificial Intelligence Training Program under the IBM–ICT Academy initiative represents a significant step toward capacity building and industry-oriented skill development among graduating students. With structured learning, practical exposure, and recognized certification, the program is expected to contribute substantially to preparing competent and industry-ready professionals in emerging technology domains.
